SOURCE A former Romanian diplomat

1. During his recent visit to Paris, General Nicolae Radescu gave the impression that he is actively promoting a split among Romanian emigres in order that he may escape what he terms "the tutelage of the political parties". Supporters of Radescu in France are attacking the proposal that a Romanian Committee should be composed in the main of representatives of political parties opposing the Goga Government. Radescu apparently desires to weaken the influence of these parties by giving them minority representation on any committee formed. He has advocated the formation of a large committee, composed in the main of non-party personalities.
